Counting Down to World Red Cross Day 2025: Celebrating 162 Years of Humanity

By Khene A. Nnabugwu | Snr. Communications & Advocacy Officer NRCS

As the calendar inches closer to May 8th, we eagerly prepare to honor the humanitarian legacy that has spanned 162 years. This year's World Red Cross Day comes with a powerful theme— "On the Side of Humanity," —a call to action and reflection as we celebrate the global and local impact of the International Red Cross and Red Crescent Movement.

Since its humble beginnings in 1863, the movement has grown into a worldwide network dedicated to alleviating suffering and protecting human dignity in the face of adversity. From wars to natural disasters, pandemics to hunger crises, the Red Cross and Red Crescent have stood unwavering, guided by the seven principles that bind us together: Humanity, Impartiality, Neutrality, Independence, Voluntary Service, Unity, and Universality.

Here in Nigeria, the Nigerian Red Cross Society epitomizes this enduring legacy. With our nation's diverse challenges—from floods and insurgencies to health emergencies—the Nigerian Red Cross has consistently proven that being "on the side of humanity" means standing by the vulnerable, empowering communities, and spreading hope to every corner of the country.

As we anticipate May 8th, we celebrate not just the past but the present and future impact of humanitarian work. The Nigerian Red Cross Society remains a beacon of compassion, adapting to the evolving needs of our communities and embodying the values that define the Red Cross Movement.

Let's gear up for this special day by reaffirming our commitment to humanity, and joining hands to make a difference. On May 8th, together we celebrate the power of service and the boundless potential of compassion. Stay tuned for more updates as we count down to World Red Cross Day 2025!

NIGERIAN RED CROSS SOCIETY WELCOMES ROYAL AMBASSADORS

BY GBUBEMI UBA | NRCS SOCIAL ENTERPRISE

In a significant move to expand its humanitarian reach, we recently paid a high-level visit to the Ooni of Ife, His Imperial Majesty, Oba Adeyeye Enitan Ogunwusi, Ojaja II. During the visit, NRCS President Prince Oluyemisi Adeaga highlighted the organization's critical role in providing humanitarian aid across Nigeria and expressed concern over the lack of sustained funding from government sources, which has left the organization heavily reliant on international assistance.

The Ooni of Ife warmly welcomed the delegation and reaffirmed his support for the NRCS, while offering valuable advice on modernizing the Society's approach. "Technology has revolutionized humanitarian services," the monarch stated, urging the NRCS to strengthen its communication strategy, leverage digital platforms, and build strategic partnerships with corporate organizations and NGOs to increase visibility and attract more stakeholders and donors. The visit also celebrated the appointment of Her Regal Majesty, Amb. Dr. Temitope Enitan-Ogunwusi, as a Royal Ambassador of the Nigerian Red Cross Society.

The Nigerian Red Cross Society thrives on the generosity of individuals, foreign partners, and the determination of its passionate volunteers

Only days earlier, we welcomed Her Regal Majesty, Olori Temitope Enitan-Ogunwusi, wife of the Ooni of Ife, as our new Royal Ambassador during a ceremony at our Abuja Headquarters.

As our Royal Ambassador, Olori Temitope will leverage her experience as a dedicated philanthropist to raise awareness and gather local support for our life-saving programs across Nigeria.

Her investiture at the society's headquarters is a landmark event in our quest to strengthen the delivery of critical services to vulnerable communities across Nigeria. This historic collaboration underscores our shared commitment to the principles of humanity, impartiality, and compassion that define the Red Cross movement.

Her Regal Majesty's words encapsulate the essence of humanitarian service: "Philanthropy is not a choice; it is a responsibility." Her dedication to supporting those in need serves as an inspiration to us all and aligns seamlessly with the values of the Nigerian Red Cross.

Abia Branch Fumigates Inmates Cells Of Nigerian Medium Security Custodial Center, Umuahia

By Nzubechi Isaiah Akubuako, Abia Branch Communications Officer

The Nigerian Red Cross Society's Abia State Branch recently visited a medium-security custodial center, where they fumigated inmates' cells using specialized equipment and chemicals. The goal was to eliminate mosquitoes, bed bugs, and other pests, improving the health and well-being of the inmates. The officer in charge and inmates expressed gratitude for this thoughtful gesture, which brought much-needed relief to the facility.

Triumph Amid Adversity: The Tale of Two Farmers

By Tejiri Ovwigho-Ugbede, BCO EDO Branch

In the serene waterside community of Iguoriakhi, Edo State Nigeria, life revolves around the fields mostly as means of livelihood.

Henry and Osayomore, two resilient farmers, have long relied on the fertile land to sustain their families. Both cultivate rice and cassava, staple crops/food in the region. Their farms has served as a means of financial sustainability and food security over the years.

But not until the flood struck. Though there has been incidents of flood before now but that of 2024 brought unprecedented challenges, leaving disaster in its trail.

The flood swept through the community with ferocity, devastating farmlands and food stored both for sale and daily survival leaving families without hope for the next meal or a place to stay.

For Osayomore, the impact was particularly harsh. At 52, he watched helplessly as the floodwaters overflowed his farm, soaked and melted his cassava plants, destroyed his rice paddies, and left his cornfields barren.

But hope came in form of the Simplified Early Action Protocol flood support provided by the Red Cross.

"After the flood destroyed all I sowed, I used part of the cash aid provide by the Red Cross to buy fertilizer," Osayomore said. "It was a start. Though the floods took much, I'm working to rebuild." His determination, despite losing nearly everything, embodies the spirit of resilience.

Henry, on the other hand, who faced almost the same fate as Osayomore stated with a smile that "the cash aid went a long way," noting that he used part of the cash aid to purchase food supplies for his family, ensuring stability during the hard times, and reinvested the rest into his farm after the water receded.

He farms rice on 2.5 hectares and cassava on another 3 hectares land.

Henry gladly explained that his approach to farming which is in tandem with the simplified early action protocol, SEAP was his saving grace when the flood struck.

He had carefully timed his cassava planting to align with the flood cycles, thus, he harvested before the waters arrived!

The Simplified Early Action Protocol project aims to build the resilience of community members to prepare and act before disaster strikes thereby mitigating its impact.

"After the flood destroyed all I sowed, I used part of the cash aid provided by the Red Cross to buy fertilizer" ~ Osayomore

Through the support of the Red Cross, both farmers found ways to rebuild. Osayomore is replanting with renewed hope, while Henry continues to expand his strategic farming techniques.

Together, their stories reflect the transformative impact of humanitarian assistance, not just in providing immediate relief, but in empowering individuals to adapt and thrive amidst adversity.

Building Resilience and Restoring Hope To Communities Affected by Flood in Jigawa State

5000 Beneficiaries Receive Aid in Jigawa State as Part Of CVA Distribution Set to Take Place in 13 States

The Nigerian Red Cross Society, in collaboration with the IFRC, has launched a major cash and agricultural assistance programme for 5,000 families across Auyo, Mallam Madori, and Kiri Kasamma LGAs in Jigawa State. During the official flag-off, NRCS President, Prince Oluyemisi Adeaga, announced that 3,000 families will benefit from agricultural support worth N150 million to boost their farming activities, while another 2,000 families will receive cash assistance totaling N154 million. He reaffirmed the Red Cross's commitment to supporting the most vulnerable, including people with disabilities, the elderly, pregnant women, and displaced children.

In his goodwill message the Jigawa State Government commended the Red Cross for standing by flood-affected communities. Also speaking at the event, the Minister of State for Humanitarian Affairs and Poverty Reduction, Dr. Yusuf Sununu, represented by his Special Assistant, Mr. Atiku Muhammad, praised the Nigerian Red Cross Society's efforts, underscoring the need for continued collaboration to effectively tackle humanitarian challenges in Nigeria.

A collection of touching moments from the CVA Distribution—witness the surge of emotions from its diverse recipients.

NRCS Inaugurates Humanitarian Service Point In Katsina: A Lifeline for Migrants in Need

BY CHARITY EKEOMA, NRCS DISASTER MANAGEMENT OFFICER (MIGRATION)

The Nigerian Red Cross Society (NRCS) has long been a symbol of hope and compassion, and its newly inaugurated Humanitarian Service Point (HSP) in Daura, Katsina State, is a shining example of this commitment. This monumental achievement, realized in partnership with the Italian Red Cross (ItRC), underscores NRCS's unwavering dedication to providing support to vulnerable migrants, regardless of their migratory status.

Situated along a key migration route in Nigeria, the Daura HSP offers a neutral and safe space where migrants can access essential services on their journeys. Whether faced with physical distress, disconnection from loved ones, or the uncertainty of their next steps, migrants now have a lifeline at their disposal.

The HSP initiative provides a wide range of crucial services, including: First Aid | Food and Non-Food Items | Referrals | Restoring Family Links (RFL) | Psychosocial Support | Information as Aid | Phone Charging Points and Free WiFi.

This milestone is more than just an inauguration; it is a testament to the NRCS's mission of ensuring no one is left behind. Every migrant matters, and through the Humanitarian Service Point, NRCS is bridging the gap between vulnerability and dignity.

The Daura HSP embodies the principles of humanity, impartiality, and neutrality, making it a beacon of hope along the migratory journey. Together with partners like the Italian Red Cross, NRCS continues to demonstrate that through unity, compassion, and action, even the most vulnerable can find a safe space and a helping hand.

EPILEPSY & THE FIRST AID RESPONDER'S ATTITUDE TO LIFE-SAVING

BY TEMITOPE O. OGUNRINDE | SOCIAL ENTERPRISE

70% OF PEOPLE LIVING WITH EPILEPSY COULD LIVE SEIZURE-FREE IF PROPERLY DIAGNOSED AND TREATED.

~ WORLD HEALTH ORGANIZATION

THE CONVULSION-SEIZURE- EPILEPSY CONUNDRUM

Epilepsy, convulsion and seizure have technical parallels, but it is important to differentiate between the three terms, to right people misconceptions and half-truths. So, let's dig in: A seizure occurs due to an electrical disturbance in the brain, while a convulsion describes the involuntary action of jerking and contraction. All seizures involve convulsions. Seizures may occur as result of several medical conditions e.g. a recent concussion, a high fever or low blood sugar. Epilepsy involves having seizures that occur repeatedly. Note that a seizure that doesn't recur should not be considered as epilepsy.

Epilepsy is classified as a chronic disorder of the central nervous system, marked by episodes of loss of consciousness and convulsions. These episodes may also be accompanied by loss of control of the bowel or bladder function. According to the World Health organization (WHO), around 50 million people worldwide have epilepsy, making it one of the most common neurological diseases globally.

Nearly 80% of people with epilepsy live in low- and middle-income countries. It is estimated that up to 70% of people living with epilepsy could live seizure-free if properly diagnosed and treated.

SOME GENERAL FALSEHOODS ABOUT EPILEPSY:

- Epilepsy is contagious.
- No one can die from epilepsy.
- If anyone has a seizure, he/she has epilepsy.
- During a seizure, the sufferer is in pain.
- You should restrain someone having a seizure to prevent him/her from dying.

THE FIRST AID RESPONDER'S ATTITUDE TO DEALING WITH PEOPLE SUFFERING FROM EPILEPSY

The First aid responder is someone who is trained to provide immediate skilled assistance to people who are injured, ill, or in distress until professional medical help arrives. They play a crucial role in providing basic life support, stabilizing a person's condition and potentially saving that life. The First aid responder's attitude towards epilepsy can be a matter of life and death. Regrettably, there have been instances where first aid responders have misunderstood epilepsy, leading to tragic consequences.

First aid responders need to know the differences between a seizure, convulsion, epilepsy, as well as how to provide proper care during and after a seizure.

HERE ARE SOME RESPONSIBILITIES OF A FIRST AID RESPONDER:

- Recognize the signs of a seizure: Know how to identify when someone is having a seizure, and don't assume they're just being aggressive or awkward. Be Calm.
- Keep the person safe: Clear the area of any hazards, and gently turn the person onto their side to keep their airway clear. Remain with them until they regain consciousness.
- Do not restrain the person, as doing so may lead to bone or muscle injuries. Instead, ensure that the area around them is free of any objects, and provide cushioning or padding for their head with a soft material.
- Do not place any object in the mouth of the person, or coerce them to swallow anything.
- Stay with the person until they are fully recovered. Offer reassurance and support.
- Call for help if seizure lasts for 5 minutes, if there are breathing issues and underlying illnesses.

NRCS & NORCROSS PAY ADVOCACY VISIT TO RELEVANT STAKEHOLDERS TO PROMOTE COMMUNITY HEALTH IN BENUE STATE

BY MARY IKEH | COMMS OFFICER, BENUE BRANCH

NRCS Benue Branch Secretary Anthony Abah led a team from NHQ health and care dept and the country manager NoRC Moris Monson to an advocacy visit to the Director General of Bureau for International Cooperation & Development BICD, Leo-Angelo Usha Viashima in his office at Government house Makurdi.

The visit was to intimate DG of the NORAD community health project in the state due to the prevailing health challenges and climate change effects.

Mr Monson further appreciated the state Govt for the smooth running & the acceptance of the project. Which makes it easy to access the project location and to do an assessment before the commencement in 2024.

The project manager, Adama Abdul, gave a detailed explanation of the project in 5 LGAs , focusing on health, nutrition, KHHP, and emergency response.

The intention to move into health facilities that were used by our movement partner ICRC before exiting the state was also revealed to the DG alongside SGBV, and referral pathways are the focus for 2025.

Mr. Viashima applauded the BS and his team for queue into the Govt sustainability plans such as one-health, hosting of coordination meetings, by Red Cross & other stakeholders, and also asked that the Branch Annual Strategy plan be submitted to his office so as to link the organization with other partners in the humanitarian field.

OYO BRANCH INAUGURATES NEW SCHOOL UNIT AT IGBOORA

On Saturday, March 15, 2025, we proudly inaugurated Police Secondary School Igboora as a school unit of the Nigerian Red Cross Society, Oyo State Branch. This momentous occasion marked the beginning of an exciting new chapter in our partnership with the school, as we work together to promote humanitarian values and provide support to the community.

The event was a resounding success, bringing together our branch management team, school staff, and authorities on the school premises. Led by Branch Secretary Trainer Ojo Olaleye Christopher, our team was warmly received by DSP Sunday Abiodun, who stood in for the School Commandant PSP Ayuba.

In his welcome address, DSP Abiodun expressed his honor at having the Red Cross Society present in their school, highlighting the organization's global reach and vital support services. The ceremony was filled with inspiring moments, including a parade inspection, a brief lecture on the history of Red Cross, and the administration of the oath of office to students and the school unit leader.

The highlight of the event was the decoration of the school unit commandant and leader, as well as the presentation of the certificate of inauguration, flag of the society, and school manual to the school. A first aid demonstration showcased the humanitarian work of the Red Cross, and the event concluded with a closing prayer and group photo.

*"INAUGURATION OF STUDENTS AT POLICE
SECONDARY SCHOOL, IGBOORA, IBARAPA DIVISION"*

By establishing a Red Cross school unit in Police Secondary School Igboora, we aim to empower students with essential life skills, such as first aid, and encourage them to become active contributors to their communities. We believe that grooming younger generations of volunteers is crucial for promoting humanitarian values and fostering a culture of compassion, empathy, and kindness among young people

FIRST AID DEMONSTRATION, AND PRESENTATION OF THE RED CROSS FLAG TO THE SCHOOL

NRCS PRESIDENT PRINCE OLUYEMISI ADEAGA @ 70

EXCLUSIVE INTERVIEW WITH THE
NATIONAL PRESIDENT OF THE NIGERIAN
RED CROSS ON HIS 70TH BIRTHDAY

Interviewer:

Prince Adeaga, it's an honor to have you with us today. Can you tell us a little about yourself?

NATIONAL PRESIDENT (Prince Olujemisi Adeaga):

Ah, thank you for having me! I'm Prince Olujemisi Adetayo Adeaga, the National President of the Nigerian Red Cross Society. I'm a chartered accountant by profession, and I've had the privilege of serving humanity through various roles, including my Current position

Interviewer:

That's impressive! Your dedication to the Red Cross is truly inspiring. Can you share with us the moment when you decided to join the Red Cross and serve humanity?

NATIONAL PRESIDENT:

I joined the Nigerian Red Cross Society in 1982, and it's been an incredible journey. What motivates me is the desire to give back to the community and make a positive impact on people's lives. As I always say, "humanity is the first religion".

Interviewer:

That's beautiful! As the National President of the Nigerian Red Cross Society, what drives your passion for humanitarian work?

NATIONAL PRESIDENT:

My passion stems from my belief in the importance of compassion, empathy, and kindness. As the President of the Nigerian Red Cross Society, I've seen firsthand the impact of our work on people's lives. It's a privilege to serve, and I'm committed to continuing this work.

Interviewer:

Your contributions to the community are equally impressive. Can you share with us some of your notable achievements?

NATIONAL PRESIDENT

: I've been fortunate to have had various roles, including being the former President of the Omo Ajorosun Club, and former President-General of the Central Council of Ibadan Indigenes (CCII). I've also been a part of the Nigerian Red Cross Society's efforts to provide humanitarian aid, including responding to devastating floods victims in various states

Interviewer:

As you celebrate your 70th birthday, what advice would you like to share with the younger generation who aspire to make a positive impact in the world?

NATIONAL PRESIDENT:

My advice would be to always remember that "humanity is the first religion." Be selfless, compassionate, and kind. Never underestimate the power of giving back to the community, and always strive to make a positive impact on people's lives. Also, don't be afraid to take risks – every good thing that comes your way comes with taking risks. Be innovative, be bold, and never shy away from challenges.

Happy Birthday NRCS National President Prince Oluyemisi Adeaga

Red Cross Services Boreholes, Promotes WASH in Azare, Bauchi State

BY PAUL ORUKAMAYAN - NDRT BAUCHI

In a powerful partnership, the International Federation of Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies (IFRC), the Emergency Response Unit (ERU) team from the Norwegian Red Cross, and the Nigerian Red Cross Society have made incredible strides in promoting clean water access and hygiene practices in Azare, Bauchi State.

The initiative included servicing boreholes in Uzum and providing extensive Water, Sanitation, and Hygiene (WASH) training for 21 participants drawn from Bauchi, Yobe, Jigawa, and Gombe branches, as well as five divisions within Bauchi. The three-day program featured lectures, presentations, and discussions on day one, followed by hands-on fieldwork on days two and three. It was facilitated by Danjuma A. Usman, a WASH Regional Disaster Response Team (RDRT) member in Nigeria, alongside Mr. Olugbami Richard from NRCS Kogi Branch.

This collaborative effort has significantly strengthened the capacity of participants to implement and sustain WASH programs in their respective branches and communities. Additionally, the training has created a network of 21 trained hand pump repairers who can now train others at division and community levels through a "Train the Trainer" (ToT) model.

The initiative also extended across five Local Government Areas (LGAs) in Bauchi State, where 100 trained volunteers engaged with 52 communities to promote hygiene best practices. Meetings with 44 community committees were held to establish sustainable plans for improving hygiene standards in the long term.

This impactful work highlights the combined dedication of IFRC, the Norwegian Red Cross, and the Nigerian Red Cross Society to fostering healthier, empowered communities.
